

Aflac Insurance Policies

Supplemental Insurance pays cash benefits directly to you for covered conditions. This money can be used for whatever is important to you such as paying your lost income, house payment, or utilities, as well as medical bills left after your health insurance has paid.

Short-Term Disability Insurance (Policy Series A57600)

The policy is designed to pay benefits to help meet the insured's financial obligations. The policy offers choice of benefit and elimination periods. The benefit amount is determined by your gross income.

Accident Insurance (Policy Series A35000)

The policy helps with the expenses associated with a covered accidental injury that includes emergency treatment, hospital confinement, accidental-death, wellness, and much more.

Cancer Insurance (Policy Series A-75000)

The policy pays benefits upon the diagnosis of internal cancer for hospital confinement, radiation and chemotherapy, and surgery, plus much more.

Critical Care Insurance (Policy Series A71000)

The policy pays benefits when a covered person has a covered health event. Coverage includes benefits for sudden cardiac arrest, major third degree burns, paralysis, end stage renal failure, persistent vegetative state, hospital confinement and continuing care for heart attack, coronary artery bypass surgery, stroke, major human organ transplant, and coma.
